The first event of its size and scope for ADI, Supplier Day 2019 was hosted by John Hassett, Senior Vice President Global Operations and Technology at ADI, alongside key leaders from the Global Operations and Technology group. In his opening address, Hassett shared ADI's business strategy and its impact on the supply chain, and discussed the challenges the company faces as it continues to strengthen its core business while extending its value.

"Each of our suppliers plays a critical role in ADI's overall strategy by offering differentiated, reliable and cost-effective solutions," said Hassett. "This year we've recognized a number of our supplier partners, who have individually and collectively done a tremendous job of enabling ADI's strategic objectives and providing outstanding support to our team as we compete, thrive and grow as a solutions company to stay ahead of what's possible."
